Comings and Goings

By Terry Crawford

What a July we had: Storms, fires, wind, and wild thunder storms that rattled windows and shook the ground, topped by extreme heat.

Amidst all this was the July Fourth Parade, Two events at the Rodeo Grounds, Great Music in the Park and Fabulous Fire Works and a super Golf Tournament.

The community was really ready for summer after a somewhat brisk and dreary spring. Their enthusiasm was more than evident at the parade which had 39 entries. Everyone thought it was one of the best ever and loved how long it took to travel the highway.

The speed of travel was set by our equestrian entries who were asked to keep it slow and to circle every-so-often to ensure a mellow pace. They did a great job with the travel time down the highway at just short of 45 minutes.

The Saturday following the 4th saw a record number of golfers sign up for the annual July 4th golf tournament. Golfers from the serious to the just for fun competed and finished the day with a great BBQ and pot luck at the Kinion/Rondeau back lawn bordering the sixth fairway - Great fun. But I have to say it was really hot out there. However soon after teeing off a mild breeze came up which made golfers, especially those walking the course more comfortable.

Paisley held its annual Mosquito Festival the last full weekend of July. My friend Carol and I made it down Saturday afternoon, just in time for the beautiful weather to go south, read thunder storm with a bit of rain and a lot of wind. Spirits were only temporarily dampened and soon activities picked up.

Outside a lively corn hole tournament resumed while inside an excellent band rocked out with some great music. Before heading home we and a light meal at the Saloon.

"Our Homestead In the Canyon: Now Succor Creek State Park"

July, 2024 featured the last chapter of Gladys Martin's Novelia, Desert Dandy, which was serialized chapter by chapter, thanks to Toni Bailie's dedicated typing each chapter and e-mailing it over.

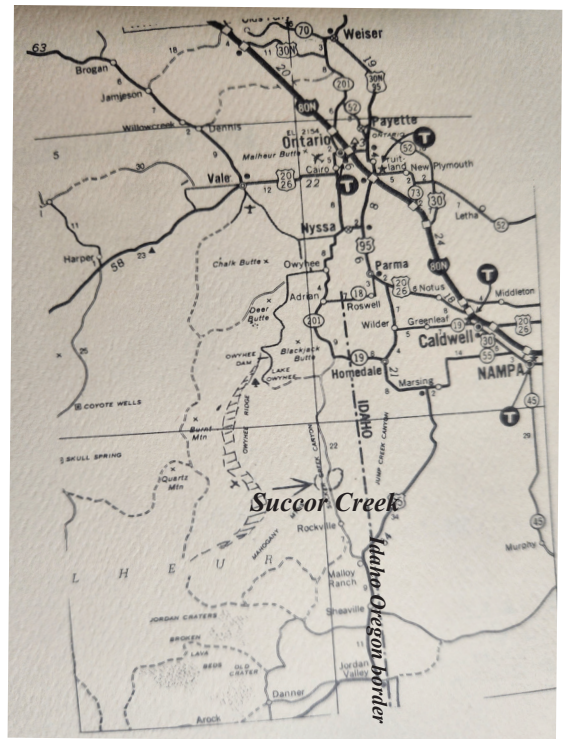

Ida Dutcher

August, 2024 begins the serialization of Ida Dutcher's little book, "Our Homestead In the Canyon: Now Succor Creek State Park" in Malheur County, Oregon.

The book was first printed in 1970 when Mrs. Dutcher was 78 years old and shares her memories of homesteading during the early years of her marriage.

We hope you enjoy the read as much as we did. Also, rather than chapters the book simply has bold headings to signal transitions. the book has many photos which we will share but please note that they are very old copies so they will not be especially crisp and will all be in black and white

Please go to page to begin enjoying Ida's journey - a true story.

The little map above is quite hard to read so we have overwritten a few key spots. The arrow near the map's center points to Succor Creek.

On the left is a photo of Succor Creek Natural Area State Park. This is a park that offers primitive camping, unlimited hiking, and great rock hounding nearby. Limited rock gathering is allowed in the park.

It is important to note that there is no cell service in the area and no potable water, so if you venture out to explore be sure to prepare well.

Country Fairs Are the Best

By Marie Lee

Marie Lee

When this issue of The Community Breeze hits your mailbox, it will be time to consider this year's Lake County Fair. Lake County Fair runs consecutively with Lake County Round-Up starting August 29th and runs through September 2nd. While Lake County's fair and round-up are located here in Lakeview, please remember that it is a celebration for the entire county. North Lake County folks are an enormous part of Lake County Fairs as 4-H and FFA youth arrive with their market animal projects.

Agricultural fairs began in Lake County around 1913. Those earliest shows were not county fairs, but rather community fairs sponsored by local residents.

between Paisley and Lakeview. That happened for a few years, but it faded, probably for various reasons including drought years and the Great Depression. Those early county fairs became hit and miss.

During the May election of 1940 voters approved a bond measure to purchase Lakeview Round-Up grounds and to appoint a Lake County Fair and Round-Up board. Making a long story full of legalities short, by the end of World War II Lake County's official fair was organized, funded, and running side-by-side with Lake County Round-Up. For several decades the fair was a thriving, bustling event.

Because I have now become an official "old-timer" I can be forgiven when I repeat stories about the old days when the interiors of fair exhibit buildings were lined with bundles of grain, alfalfa, and grass. Tables held glorious amounts of fruits and vegetables. Exhibit shelves were filled with varieties of home canned goods. Bakers were anxious to outdo each other with pies, cookies, cakes, and breads.

Times have changed and aside from 4-H and FFA exhibits it seems obvious to most, who care to voice their opinions, that Lake County Fair sadly needs entries.

This is an "all call" to folks in North Lake County to show off your various talents by bringing an entry or two to Lake County's 2024 fair. Earlier in the year, Lake County

Paisley and Summer Lake communities sponsored some grand events at Paisley that included horse races and even automobile races. Although Lakeview held several fairs they were really outdone by Paisley's events. Oregon's governor once paid a visit to a Paisley Fair.

Eventually, Oregon State Legislature appropriated money for individual counties to select fair boards and put on agricultural fairs. Funds were dealt out on a sliding scale according to population and so Lake County's share was minimal, however, a County Fair Board was appointed. To share the event equally between north and south it was decided to hold fairs alternately

Examiner published an extra edition, "Fair Premium 2024." Hopefully there are extra copies at various locations around North Lake County, if not, give the Examiner a call or an email and they will get them to you.

This year there are open class categories in the following:

livestock, produce, home economics, fiber arts, crafts, photography, fine arts, and flowers. mass is huge Lake County's population base remains small. We remain remote—we consider that

From previous quilt shows I am personally aware that some of the finest quilters in the country live in North Lake County. As I see it, competition and prize money are simply an aside, it is the showing that truly matters.

This is an old drum that I have beaten before. As we move further away from family values and community pride our societal divisions grow deeper and harder to bridge. Although our land fact both a blessing and a curse. However, it is in communities such as ours that a chance remains for us to put aside differences, and come together for the support of not only our youth, but the support of family based, old-fashioned good times.

Come on down, enter whatever it is that tickles your fancy, and hopefully those of us down here in the south end will do the same.

From This Angle: A Tapestry of Memories

By Toni Bailie

I recently discovered a question to ponder: As you look back on your life, what do you want to remember? I've been reflection on the many interesting people I met when I wrote feature stories for Ruralite Magazine. I weave them into a colorful tapestry of memories.

Jeannine Dwyer, licensed by Oregon to rehabilitate raptors, has treated injured owls, hawks and eagles at her Westside farm. I joined her as she drove from Lakeview to Picture Rock Pass to release a golden eagle who had recovered from injuries along Highway 31. As we approached the summit, the eagle began to stir restively in its cage. What a thrill to watch the released eagle spread its wings and soar to its home on the rimrock.

From Gary Brain of Summer Lake Apiaries, I learned about the amazing life of bees. A hive forms an intelligent organism. Female worker bees feed and groom the queen, make honey comb from a gland on their thorax and clean the hive. Some are assigned guard duty at the entrance to repel invading yellow jackets. Gary shared his fascination with the complex insects, how they forage over many miles to find nectar and how they form new colonies.

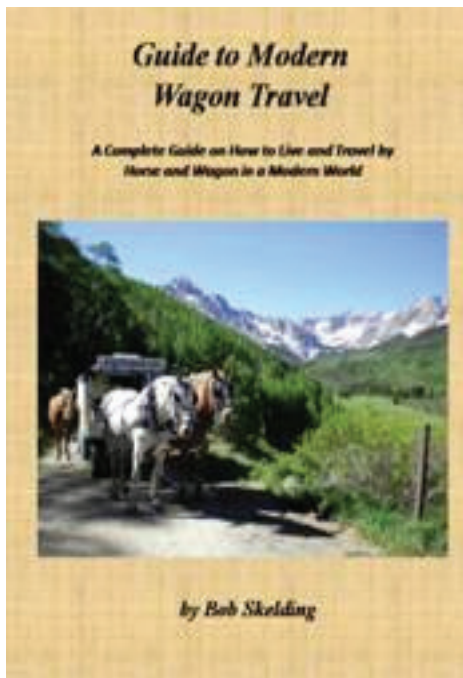

Robyn Trelease of Plush related her pioneer journey as a female railroad engineer. Raised in a railroad family in Klamath Falls, she first became a station agent. Later, after a six-month training program, she scored the highest on the engineer's exam. During her carrier, she pulled freight trains from Vancouver BC to Beiber, California, Northeast to the Tricities in Washington and out to the Oregon Coast. She enjoyed the fun of blowing the train's whistle, and seeing the beautiful scenery rolling by the Burlington- Northern line.

Once I hitched a ride with Bob Skelding, who drove a wagon pulled by draft horses on a 10,000 mile trip around America. On a loop through the West, he arrived at Valley Falls, his horses weary from a 120-mile journey. Jacquie Bass offered a pasture at her RV Park. Then she accompanied Bob when he resumed his journey to Arizona. On their return, Bob and his horses stayed with her in Valley Falls. The day I interviewed them, Steve and Jacquie took me on a jaunt out toward Abert Rim. An added bonus was the mimosas Jacquie served from her thermos.

With Leon and Billie Flick, I enjoyed another wagon ride pulled by a team of Belgian draft horses. Their enterprise, Dinner On The Wagon, featured a meandering journey into the foothills of the Warner Valley. At the end of the road, guests were escorted to a large tent and treated to a feast of barbecued tri-tip. Leon provided the entertainment, reciting his cowboy poetry.

When Steve St. Clair was a contract carrier, he traveled round-trip from Lakeview to Silver Lake, covering 200 miles each day to ensure residents received their mail. In Lakeview, he would meet the mail truck from Klamath Falls, sort the mail, then follow his route, delivering to mail boxes along the way. Sometimes he would take packages up to someone's doorstep. As I rode along with him, he recounted some of his adventures: forging through a sandstorm on east of Silver Lake, or transporting cats from Summer Lake to the veterinary office in Lakeview. He also hauled bee hives, boxes of baby chicks and ladybugs for gardeners. He brought books for the shelves of Paisley and Silver Lake libraries. Once he gave a lift to a bicyclist from Holland who was stranded at Summer Lake. During his tenure, Steve loved seeing the countryside in all seasons and getting acquainted with people on his route.

I am grateful for all those who shared their stories with me and enriched my life.

I do believe that this has been the longest time that the temperature has been above 90 degrees since I have been keeping bees, over 20 years!

This month we will chat about "Summer Dearth", when to take some gold from the girls, and queen replacement.

First, summer dearth. Dearth as defined by the dictionary is simply a lack of something. As it applies to beekeeping we generally think of summer dearth, which is simply a time where the major blooms of plants and trees have come and gone and we go into the dry summer months of mid July, August and some of September. No matter how we think of dearth, the girls know the real status of the nectar flow. Honeybees behave in distinctly different ways when nectar shortages occur and that is the surest way recognize a dearth. Here are some of the behavior you may see in the girls.

You may see bees on flowers they normally avoid; not only honey bees but other nectar and pollen gathering bees. You may see them revisiting flowers they have already visited once. I see this quite often. Bees will sample a flower fly to another one and come back to the first one they visited to try again. You can see this on flowers that have multiple blooms on one stem. Robbing and fighting may occur on hives that are close to each other, if this happens, try an entrance reducer on the weaker hive but, remember it is hot this time of year and the hives need all the ventilation they can get.

I offset my top cover about two to three inches on the inner cover and then offset my inner cover about 1/4 inch from the hive body. The girls may be seen trying to feed on your hummingbird feeder or even investigating your garbage can.

I have seen bees working in horse and other animal feeds. I am seeing my bees dash, dart and dive around the hive and my yard. They may just check things out because of a different smells, trying to find sources of nectar.

In a few weeks the rabbit brush and other fall blooms will be coming on and the girls will once again be foraging for the gold. We have also been planting wildflower seeds around our property to help with the dearth. I have found good success with "all in one kits" that have several types of wildflowers that supers off? In our part of the state I have found that one can take off a full super as early as July as long as is a strong hive. Just remember to install another super in its place, bee-cuzz in September and into October the Rabbit brush and Sage are blooming and I like to give the girls time to harvest that source of nectar.

Midwest and Eastern beekeepers typically start taking off supers in mid June and then start to feed for winter. In the high desert our honey flow is still going strong. A few tips about removing supers: bee careful as the girls are very protective of their stores. Make sure you are suited up and move slowly. I will go into detail later on the actual steps that I do to rob the hive.

Now is the time to think about re-queening. Unfortunately it has been too hot to ship queens this month. If you have old or failing queens consider replacement. First, check to see if you can get replacements then decide which queens are weak or failing. As with most everything in beekeeping, replacing queens requires specific steps. Having said that, I shall leave the details for next month. Until next month bee safe! Douse those campfires! And pray for our fire fighters to stay safe battling over 103 fires and over a million acres in Oregon.

Our Homestead In the Canyon

Now Succor Creek State Park in Malheur County Oregon

Authored by Ida Dutcher

After my husband, Willard Dutcher, and I, Ida Rose Burnside, were married at Weiser, Idaho, July 13, 1912, we came to Nyssa, Oregon. After spending a short honeymoon at the Western Hotel there, we went out to the John Ward ranch where Willard's brother-in-law, Oscar Canter, was working and living in an old ranch house on the ranch. We moved in with him and Willard (better known as Bill) went to work as a hay hand during the haying season.

He worked for the Ward Brothers and other sheep men during the haying, feeding and lambing seasons for the next five years. We squared on a little island in the Snake River and built a little cabin there which was our home for the next three years. then we moved to a house near where the bridge crosses the snake river near Nyssa, and there our daughter Gertrude was born August 24, 1915.

At that time Willard and another young man, Claud Willson, were clearing the sage brush off the land where the sugar beet factory is now located. (1970).

Willard always wanted to get out in stock country and have a little outfit of his own. Any place he wanted to go was find with me, although I knew nothing about this kind of living.

So, one cold windy day in March of 1917, we loaded up the necessary things we would need and started out to find that new home. Ben Garagus, a young man there, decided to go with us and look for a homestead with us. He rode our saddle horse, Flipper, drove our few head of cattle. I think there were seven head.

We had two very good milk cows, Old Betty and her offspring Pearl. They had been given to us as a wedding present from Willard's mother in 1912 and we had kept their increase, so we had a start. We also had a little black lamb that had been given to our little girl. We named her Topsey but Gertrude couldn't say that, so she called her Tada and that is the name she always went by and had her for a long, long time.

We also had two dogs. Red was a beautiful Russian Wolf Hound which Bill had when we were married and been given to him when he worked at the Alvoid ranch near Steens Mountain. Also, Steve, a black, short-haired bird dog and they were both good to help drive the cattle.

Bill had been told there was a spring called Mary's Water that could be homesteaded, so that was our destination. The first night out we made camp at the Big Bend on the Snake River. The tent was soon set up and a good camp fire going. The cattle were bedded down and horses hobbled so they wouldn't get far away, and we all spend a comfortable night.

Just as we were loaded up and ready to leave Nyssa, a man from the cheese factory came over and gave us a big cheese. It must have weighed twenty pounds and it was so good to have for lunch during our trip. Our second night out was warmer as the wind wasn't blowing and we camped at Coffee Pot Spring. Bill had shot two coyotes during the day, so he had pelts to stretch on boards which he had on the load. He had anticipated there would be coyotes to kill on the trip out.

He had special reason to want to kill them as he had been bitten by one in 1917 and had to go to Vale and take the rabies treatment.

The third night we wog to Mary's Water. During the days travel the wagon had hit a deep rut and upset. Willard jumped out and caught me before I hit the ground it was probably good thing he did because I was seven month's pregnant. But we didn't worry about it at all. In fact I don't think we had a worry in the world. Makes me shutter when I think of it now.

Mary's Water

Mary's Water was a spring which came out of the hillside and down the slope and filled several watering troughs for watering range livestock. Many wild animals and birds also came here for water, especially in the dry season when many other watering places were dry.

Before the spring near where we had set up our tend, was a flat where we used to watch the sage he4ns as they came in. The big roosters would strut around and soon became accustomed to us being there and were not at all afraid.

Our tent was ten by twelve feet. We had a small iron stove, a table, high chair, iron bed and springs, three boxes for chairs and some apple boxes piled one on top of the other for cupboards. I didn't know it then, but that tent was to be my home for the next two and a half years. Ben had a small tent set up nearby where he slept.

The months of March and April were cold and stormy and there was heavy loss of both cattle and sheep. when a cow or ewe would die and leave a calf or lamb, the owners would give them to us. We would milk our cows and feed them so soon we had several head.

Time passed quickly and we were comfortable in our tent although it was cold outside.

We had our mail come to Rockville and one of the boys would make the long ride in for it about every two weeks. We could also have any needed supplies brought out by the Caldwell to Jordan Valley stage. These days were always happy days for me and were my only contact with the outside world.

After the weather warmed up, the boys cut sage brush and made a fence and a garde4n was planted.

On May 1st, Willard took Gertrude and i to Caldwell, Idaho, and we took the train to Donnelly, Idaho, where my folks lived.

Here I waited for the arrival of our new baby. Our son, Orville Earl, was born at McCall on May 28th, 1917. Three weeks later I was getting ready to take the train back home again.

I was slow about getting mu two babies ready so I didn't have time to eat my breakfast. But mother and my sister Maude had fed Gertrude and fixed us a lunch to take with us. We made it to the Donnelly depot just in time to catch the train to Caldwell.

Most of the passengers got off the train at Banks for lunch but I was busy with the youngsters and also very timid, so I fed Gertrude her lunch but didn't eat anything myself.

I had planned on staying overnight in Caldwell, but when the train got there the stage for The Rocks was waiting. So we got on it and it was very late when we got to The Rocks. I got a room and asked to be called in time to go on the stage to Rockville.

The night passed all too soon for me and i was called, but again bu the time I had my little ones ready to go, the stage was waiting. So again I missed my breakfast. The lady who ran the hotel gave Gertrude some cookies. I had forgotten the lunch my mother and sister had fixed for us and left it on the train. When we arrived at the Rockville Post Office my husband was waiting for us and was very happy to have us back and proud of his new baby son.

We started out in the wagon again and stopped at a sheep camp. the herder asked us to eat with him and I will never forget how good those beans and sourdough biscuits were. I am sure I never ate any so good as those were.

The Prospector and his writing travel a path that has many curves and bends along the way, but in the end an interesting destination is reached. So spend a little time mulling over the journey and if you are curious like me, you may find yourself getting ready to do a little exploring.

GIANTS II

By The Prospector

The evidence suggesting giants humanoids once lived on Earth is overwhelming. There are articles from mainstream newspapers such as the New York Times, and hundreds of small town newspaper articles documenting the discoveries of giant skeletons during mound excavations. In some cases, the heads were so large an adult could slip the skull over his or her own head. At the very least, far too big to be considered Homo sapiences as we know them, and found in greater numbers as well. One discovery on Catalina Island, which is twenty-eight miles from the mainland, off shore of Los Angeles, revealed over 3,000 giant skeletons, all in a single burial site. No evidence has been found giants living on the island. These giants used the island for a cemetery.

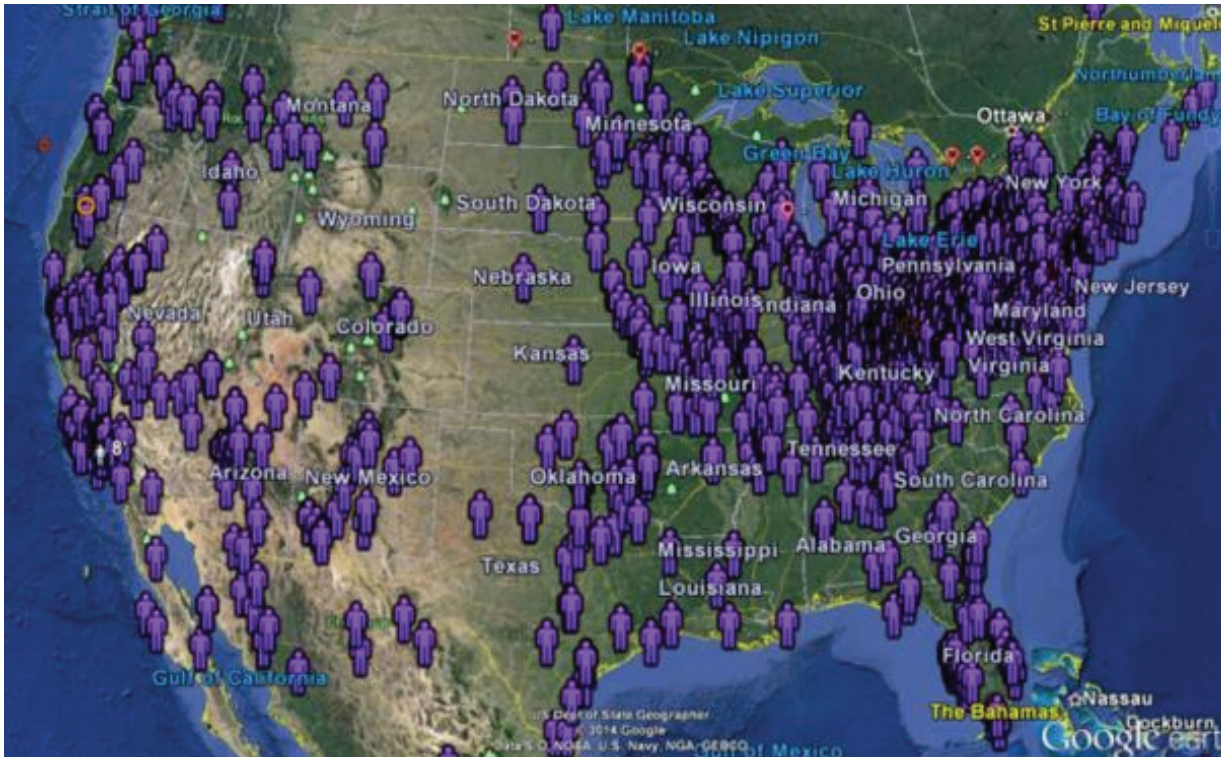

Furthermore, giant's skulls and skeletons of a veritable race of 'Goliaths' have been found within earthen mounds on a regular basis throughout the Mid-western states for more 150 years. These skeletons can often be as tall as 11 or 12 feet –clearly dwarfing any type of humans we now see here on Earth. Giants have been found in Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky and Brownsville, Oregon that has over 160 mounds just west of township. One mound is over five stories tall and five hundred yards by one hundred yards wide. As with local Indians who did not know how to knap knives I would just go to these mounds get what I wanted. Never have I found any bones the reason being when the "fire watchers" as they were called by the Indians which lived with the mound builders because when they were buried they packed in acidic clay while sitting 'Indian fashion' towards the center, fire. When asked what happen to the people they just said they were gone one day without war. That certainty not the case with many of the encounters with giants. Many legends from the Incas ganging up on giants living on city block size man-made islands. Many giants in thru out history have been friendly but why all the fornications.

On August 10, 1891, the New York Times reported that scientists from the Smithsonian Institution had discovered several large "pyramidal monuments" near Lake Mills, Wisconsin. The excavators found an elaborate system of defensive works, which they named "Fort Aztalan". "Madison (Wi) was in ancient days the center of a teeming population numbering no less than 200,000 "the Times said.

Skeletal remains of very large humanoids continue to be uncovered. Around the world, over 200 the jaw were described as regular molars. Heads usually found were elongated, believed to be due to a longer life-span. Here are portions of the article descriptions of these giants;

From the crown of the head to the sole of his feet, the length is ten feet 9.5 inches. the measure around the chest is 59.5 inches and it is estimated this giant must have weighed at least 900 pounds when covered with a reasonable amount of flesh. Verily, there were giants in those days."

There seems to have been a major cover-up by Western archaeological institutions since the early 1900's leading us to believe that America was first colonized by Asian peoples migrating across the frozen Bering Strait 15,000 years ago, during the Ice Age. The fact there are hundreds of thousands of burial mounds all over America predating the Ice Age. The spectrum of Mound Builders history is greater than the history of Ancient Egypt and all her dynasties.

digs containing giant's remains have been found in recent decades. However, giant skeleton discoveries have not been reported by local or national news in the USA, for the most part, since 1950's.

Why are academic intuitions hiding the truth about these our ancestors of humanity? They are our ancestors, the giants who roamed the earth, even recalled in the Bible and other ancient texts of the world. It seems the American media fears people would question evolution and rightfully so. There is a "prevailing scholarly consensus" that we have an adequate historical understanding of the people who lived in North America during this period, and the giants do not fit in that model, Also, fundamentalist Bible believers hold to a literal interpretation of the beginning of man as recorded in Genesis (he was created a fully formed human), even rejecting the well-established scientific fact of evolution.

First reported in the May 4, 1912, issue of the New York times, the 18 skeletons found by the Peterson brothers on Lake Lawn Farm in southwest Wisconsin exhibited several strange and freakish features. Their height ranged between 7'6" and ten feet and their skulls were "presumably those of men, and are much larger than the heads of any race which inhabit America today. Furthermore, they tended to have a double row of teeth, six fingers, and six toes and like humans even came in different races. the teeth in the front of "The head is a massive 31.5 inches in circumference, is low in the front and very flat on top . . .

It's time to come clean with our history and let us make our own decisions on evolution.
